

SEC Thailand's Public Hearing on revision to the regulation on supporting securities and derivatives business partnership.

The SEC is seeking public comments on the proposed revision to the regulation supporting partnership among the business operators so that the business operators can operate the business according to their own skills and expertise, and they will only be responsible for their own operations.

Under the current business standard, in the case that the securities and the derivatives business operators intend to allow others to conduct some business operation on their behalf, the business operators may assign someone to operate (outsource) or form the business partnership.

Therefore, the SEC proposed to revise regulation by clarifying the business partnership practices in the SEC circular notice to support business partnership among business operators that are directly supervised by the SEC.
